Could you tell me the current indicative wait time for each of the above procedures?	The Trust reports waiting times/list data as per national requirements and for waiting list, the Trust is obliged to report on incomplete pathways at a specialty/Trust level, (usually at the end of the month for national reporting) the length of time the patient has waited based on RTT (referral to treatment) rules; the length of time waited at airmpact can therefore be different for each patient, and there is a significant risk the length of time waited at any given moment in time may be skewed. It is our understanding that the information requested in this particular question is referring to those patients treated and providing an indicative time taken between the or unique and characterised by the nuances in terms of events in the pathway which could impact the length of time they have waited from when they are referred, providir. Furthermore, waiting list data has the intended procedure the patient is due to have and this may not always be the actual final procedure a patient has when they under	ny given moment in time is ch date the patient is referred to ng RTT waiting time over cert	the hospital and the date the tain amounts of time would b	patient receives their definitive e misleading.	vay and these events; the consequential treatment.
